

26 April 1955

MEMORANDUM FOR THE DIRECTOR:

FORTUNE Magazine (Martha Bucknell) asks if their candid camera man may take a picture of you in your office today, Tuesday, April 26, or Wednesday, April 27. The picture is for use with a story in FORTUNE by Charles J. V. Murphy. Presumably the story is on the Soviet Union's strategical plans as affected by administrative changes in the Politburo, regarding which I furnished you a note on 12 April when Mr. Wisner asked if you would see Mr. Murphy on this subject or designate someone to discuss the subject with him.

Providing^{ed} they are going to use a picture of you whether you have a candid shot taken or not, it would seem desirable to grant the request, which will only take about ten minutes of your time. As a general principle, however, I believe it better were FORTUNE not to use your picture illustrating a story on Russia when we have not, insofar as I know, had an opportunity to read the story in advance.

RECOMMENDATION: That you grant the request.
